HISTORY OF THE CHURCHES OF

INDIA, BURMA, SIAM, THE MALAY

FRENCH APPRECIATION OF HONGKONG.

M. Paul Dreyfus, a French writer of some repute, has recently been pointing to Hongkong as an object-lesson to his countrymen. He says that the question might fairly be asked whether, in the presence of the great modifications which have lately taken place in the Far East and notably in China, the part of Hongkong will be able to keep pace with all these developments and transformations, and with the increase of foreign rivals. Having regard to the latest statistics, the writer thinks that Hongkong has not much to fear from any of these changes, owing principally to the fact that in five years, in quoting the trade and shipping statistics of the Colony, he points out that the wonderful success of the enormous trade of the colony was made on the basis of the foreign population, inclusive of the military and naval element;

while the foreign population, which is merely responsible for the commercial activity, does not exceed 8,732 inhabitants.

The writer adds that if the distribution of

clusive of the military and naval element;

tivity, does not exceed 8,732 inhabitants.
